Agencies team up to hit ‘Home Run for Health’

Inland area residents are invited to help “Hit a Home Run Health” Aug. 10 when the Inland Empire 66ers face-off against the Lake Elsinore Storm in a baseball game that focuses on healthy living.

Riverside University Health System – Public Health, the San Bernardino County Department of Public Health and the California Health Collaborative have all joined the effort to spread a message of good health by offering FREE admission to the public when the 66ers host the Storm at San Manuel Stadium, 280 South E St. in San Bernardino.

Fans are invited to sign up for free vouchers while supplies last. One voucher can be redeemed for four tickets and families are limited to two vouchers, for eight tickets total. Parking is $5 per vehicle.

“The best thing about this event will be all the health information that will be made available to fans. Our staff will be there to showcase our programs and the great services and resources we provide to residents every day,” said Trudy Raymundo, San Bernardino County Public Health director.

Vouchers are being distributed at the following locations:
